

CTI SAN ANTONIO: NACVA SWEEPS INTO TOWN

The National Association for Certified Valuation Analysts (NACVA) Arrives in San Antonio 10/27-11/1; Consultants' Training Institute Presents Nation's Leading Experts in Business Valuation, Litigation Consulting, and Financial Forensics

SALT LAKE CITY– September 30, 2008 – The National Association of Certified Valuation Analysts (NACVA), the organization that establishes, builds, protects, and defends business value, announced that its Consultants' Training Institute will arrive in San Antonio, TX, for five days, October 27th through November 1st.

Hundreds of attendees will gather at the St. Anthony Wyndham hotel to receive training and certification, brush up on the latest developments in finance, and mix with leading visionaries in the industry.

“NACVA’s six-day Consultants' Training Institute is world renowned for providing the most comprehensive foundational training programs on how to value private business enterprises and how to use financial forensics in preparation for litigation,” said Parnell Black, NACVA CEO. “For more than a decade the Consultants' Training Institute has grown in popularity, spreading to more cities, attracting more people, and adding new training tracks on a variety of specialties.”

In San Antonio, include not only workshops (on Business Interruptions Losses & Claims and Fair Value for Financial Reporting), but six-day tracks that provide deep detail on other topics:

- Business Valuation Training Center, a comprehensive program that ranges from fundamentals and techniques in business valuation to case studies, analysis, theory, and applications.
- Forensic Accounting Academy, that takes participants from concept to detail and delivers specific forensic accounting tools and techniques that are applicable to virtually all aspects of the accounting profession: auditing, tax, valuation, litigation, and fraud.
- Litigation Boot Camp for Financial Experts, which explores commercial damages theory and case law, statistical analysis, how to calculate damages, witness preparation, expert testimony, and juror perspectives.

The CTI offers two distinctive business valuation designations through its Business Valuation Certification and Training Center (BVTC): Certified Valuation Analyst (CVA), designed for valuers who are CPAs, and Accredited Valuation Analyst (AVA), for valuers who are either MBAs or others in government or business with extensive existing business experience. A third credential, the Certified Forensic Financial Analyst (CFFA), is offered through NACVA’s Financial Forensics Institute.

Over 15,000 professionals have attended various NACVA/CTI training in recent years. To learn more about the more than 80-plus courses that are offered through the CTI and to reserve your space in San Antonio, visit the NACVA site where we have information on the conference posted, or call toll-free: (800) 677-2009.

About NACVA:

The National Association of Certified Valuation Analysts (NACVA) is a global, professional association that delivers training from the nation's leading experts in consulting fields such as business valuation, financial litigation forensics, forensic accounting, business fraud, mergers and acquisitions, business and intellectual property damages, fair value, healthcare consulting, and exit strategies. NACVA's two business valuation credentials, the Certified Valuation Analyst (CVA) and Accredited Valuation Analyst (AVA), are the only business valuation designations accredited by the National Commission for Certifying Agencies (NCCA).

Through its affiliated organizations, the Financial Forensics Institute (FFI) and the Association of Certified Merger and Acquisition Professionals (ACMAP), NACVA also sponsors the Certified Forensic Financial Analyst (CFFA) and the Certified Mergers and Acquisition Professionals (ACMAP) designations. Along with its training and certification programs, NACVA offers a range of support services, reference materials, software, and customized databases to enhance the professional capabilities and capacities of its members. Headquartered in Salt Lake City, UT, it has trained more than 17,000 financial professionals. Visit www.nacva.com

Editors: NACVA Subject Matter Experts

NACVA has subject matter experts available for comment on current financial news, and harbors a stable of great writers that qualified publications can tap to contribute articles explaining "best practices" or "top tips" on a wide range of subjects including business valuation, forensic accounting, business fraud, mergers and acquisitions, business and intellectual property, exit strategies, and more. For more info, call Dave @ (512) 257-1605, or write daved1@nacva.com.