CONSULTANTS' TRAINING INSTITUTE ANNOUNCES 2011 BUSINESS VALUATION TRAINING CENTER (BVTC) SCHEDULE

The Nation's Experts in Business Valuation and Financial Forensics Brings In-Person Training—Sponsored by the National Association of Certified Valuation Analysts—to 17 Cities Nationwide

SALT LAKE CITY — The Consultants' Training Institute (CTI) announced its 2011 Business Valuation Training Center (BVTC) schedule, including appearances in 17 cities nationwide. Sponsoring organization, the National Association of Certified Valuation Analysts (NACVA), has trained over 19,000 practitioners in business valuation over the past 20 years. Learn more about the specifics of the program on the Training section of the NACVA site, or call (800) 677-2009 today to book space when BVTC comes to your city.

“The CTI/NACVA five-day Business Valuation and Certification Training Centers are world renowned for being the most comprehensive and complete foundational training program teaching to the body of knowledge on how to value private business enterprises,” said Parnell Black, NACVA CEO. “By combining hundreds of years of practitioner experience and academic insights with top-flight instructors, our courses offer CPAs and other financial professionals a critical edge in expertise to grow practices, strengthen brands, and tackle the most difficult financial problems.”

Now being taught in seven countries, the BVTC prepares candidates to pass any business valuation (BV) certification exam offered in the industry as well as those offered by NACVA—the Certified Valuation Analyst® (CVA®) and Accredited Valuation Analyst (AVA) designations.
